The Foundation's Vision is believing that anyone can be a hero and help build "Nations of Good."

Dear Friends,

We are pleased to share with you the Roberto Clemente Foundation's 2022 Annual Report which highlights the 2021 work of the Foundation.

While the last two years have been challenging for everyone, the Report illustrates the commitment the Clemente Family has maintained to preserving the legacy of Roberto and Vera Clemente during these difficult times. Making a positive impact in communities with an emphasis on improving the lives of children, families and military veterans continues to drive our efforts. Puerto Rico remains a focal point of the Foundation's efforts through baseball and softball clinics and supporting meals for the increased number of families in need during the pandemic.

As we enter 2022, a year that will celebrate many milestones and anniversaries, including the 50th anniversaries of Roberto's 3,000th hit and his all-too premature passing, we encourage you to join us in celebrating Roberto's and Vera's lives and legacies. We pledge to continue our efforts to inspire people of all ages to give back to their communities and help " Build Nations of Good. " On behalf of the Clemente Family, the Foundation's Board and Roberto's many fans around the world, thank you for your sustained support.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE FOUNDATION ANNUAL REPORT 2022

Roberto Clemente

• Born in Puerto Rico in 1934, Roberto Clemente worked tirelessly to promote greater accessibility and equality for Latino Americans, both within and outside of baseball. Clemente was known for hosting free baseball clinics for underprivileged youth. He also delivered significant financial aid to people in his native Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic and other countries.

• Clemente became the 11th member of Major League Baseball's exclusive 3,000 Hit Club, winning four batting titles during his eighteen-year career with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He was a 15-time All-Star, the National League MVP in 1966 and helped guide the Pirates to two World Series titles, in 1960 and in 1971, where he was named the Series Most Valuable Player. The winner of twelve consecutive Gold Glove Awards for defensive excellence in right field, Clemente's throwing arm is legendary. However, Clemente's legacy goes far beyond the baseball field.

• In December 1972 Nicaragua was reeling from a devastating earthquake. Clemente planned a flight to Nicaragua to deliver much needed aid. His plane crashed almost immediately after takeoff from San Juan on New Year's Eve in 1972. Roberto Clemente, age 38, and four others on the plane died.

• A few months after his passing, Clemente became the first Latin American inducted into Baseball's Hall of Fame, as the customary five-year waiting period was waived. Major League Baseball has also honored his legacy since then by presenting the Roberto Clemente Award each year to the player who best exemplifies Clemente's commitment to community involvement.

• Posthumously, Clemente was the first-ever recipient of the Presidential Citizens Medal, the first athlete to receive the Congressional Gold Medal and has also received the Presidential Medal of Freedom.

• Today there are more than 200 schools, parks, streets, leagues, post offices, statues, books and more that honor Clemente from Puerto Rico to Nicaragua to Japan.

VERA CLEMENTE
WIDOW OF ROBERTO CLEMENTE

VERA CLEMENTE – OUR FOUNDER

On New Year's Eve 1972, Vera Clemente, went to see her husband Roberto off as he was leaving from Puerto Rico with relief supplies for earthquake victims in Nicaragua.

She thought her husband should wait until the next day. However, Roberto insisted on flying that night, to see firsthand that relief supplies would get to those in need.

Shortly after takeoff, the plane crashed into the ocean. There were no survivors.

For the rest of her life, Vera, 30 at the time, dedicated herself to keeping her husband's memory alive.

Never remarrying, she built her own humanitarian legacy. She died in 2019 at age 78 after being hospitalized in San Juan.

During her remarkable lifetime, she focused on raising her three young children – Roberto Jr., Luis and Enrique, were 2, 5 and 6 at the time of Roberto's death – while continuing and expanding Roberto's humanitarian mission.

She founded and chaired the Foundation, "to promote positive change and community engagement through the example and inspiration of Roberto. " She established Ciudad Deportiva Roberto Clemente (Roberto Clemente Sports City), which Roberto had envisioned as a place where young people could play sports.

Every year, she took an active part in choosing the recipient of the Roberto Clemente Award, an honor given since 1973 to the player who "best represents the game of baseball through extraordinary character, community involvement, philanthropy and positive contributions, both on and off the field." Annually she flew to the World Series to present the Award that year's recipient.

"Vera epitomized grace, dignity and strength in the wake of heartbreaking tragedy and loss," Pirates owner Bob Nutting said in a statement. "Following Roberto's passing, Vera raised their three sons into outstanding men, while also working tirelessly to ensure her and her husband's shared vision of compassion, service and love of others lived on forever. As MLB's Goodwill Ambassador, she also traveled throughout the world to promote baseball and visit hospitalized and other children each year at the All-Star Game and World Series.

"As a Goodwill Ambassador for MLB, Vera impacted countless children and extended her family's humanitarian legacy of helping those in need," MLB commissioner Rob Manfred said. "With grace and strength, she led the way in welcoming players to the fraternity of Roberto Clemente Award winners, the single most prestigious off-the-field honor in our game."

"Rest in peace, Vera," said Carlos Beltran, the 2013 Clemente Award recipient. " Thank you for sharing with all of us all the great memories and the legacy of our beloved Roberto Clemente. "

Historic Designation Gains Support

• In 2021 several local governments added their names to the list of supporters calling on the U.S. Department of the Interior to recognize the historical significance of Roberto Clemente's place of passing in Loíza, Puerto Rico by adding it to the National Register of Historic Places.

• The list now includes the United States Congress, New York City Council, New Jersey General Assembly, Iowa, San Francisco, Houston, St. Louis, Palm Bay (FL), Hartford, Pittsburgh, Tampa, Bradenton and Orlando, with several other expected to join in the coming weeks.

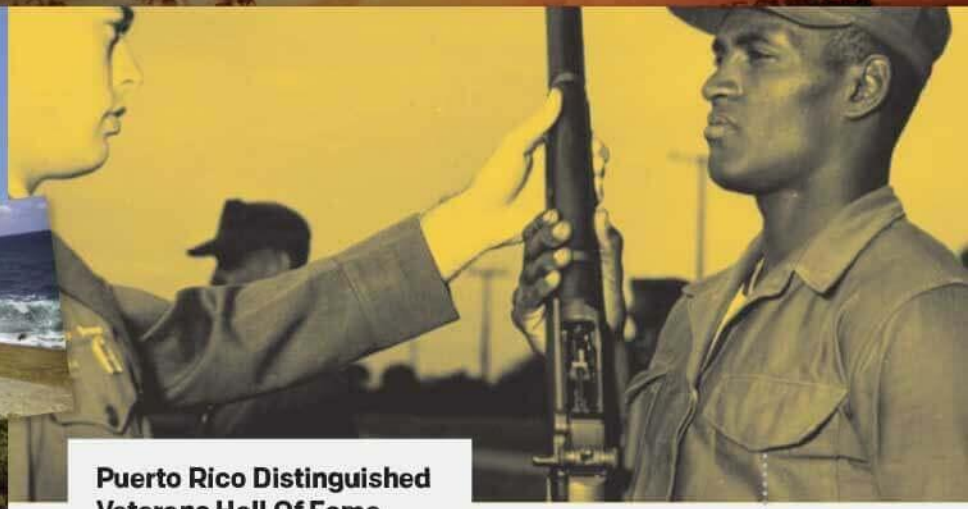

• As 2021 came to an end, U.S. Senator Bob Menendez and Congressman Darren Soto introduced a bicameral resolution calling for action.

• "Roberto Clemente not only made his mark on the game of baseball as a Puerto Rican professional baseball right fielder, but he also left behind a legacy for his advocacy and commitment to the equitable treatment of Latino and Black baseball players," said Sen. Menendez. "Clemente's story is a true American story, and that's why I am proud to be leading this resolution in the Senate. It is long overdue for the Interior Department to recognize the historical significance of his humanitarian efforts in his place of death near Piñones in Loíza, Puerto Rico, by adding it to the National Register of Historic Places."

Puerto Rico Distinguished Veterans Hall Of Fame

In November 2021, Roberto Clemente was inducted into the Puerto Rico Distinguished Veterans Hall of Fame. Private First Class Clemente served as an active-duty infantryman at Camp Lejeune until 1959; he remained in the Marine Corps Reserve until September 1964.

Induction into the Hall of Fame is awarded to Puerto Rican veterans whose character and distinguished accomplishments, either with the United States Armed Forces or in their civilian careers, exemplify professional excellence or meritorious contributions to society, according to the Office of the Veteran's Advocate for Puerto Rico.

An individual must be nominated in order to be inducted into the Hall of Fame. The nomination package is then sent to the Board of Directors comprised of five members, including the Veteran's Advocate for Puerto Rico. The board reviews the packages and then selects inductees based on their accomplishments throughout their military careers as well as their contributions to society in the fields of education, arts, sciences, sports, industry, government and community service.

Roberto & Vera Clemente Drive

In December, in Pittsburgh's Oakland community, Roberto Clemente Drive was officially renamed Roberto & Vera Clemente Drive. The measure was passed unanimously by the Pittsburgh City Council.

The road that will now bear both their names passes what remains of the Forbes Field outfield wall.

City leaders said honoring Vera was an important gesture.

Members of the Clemente family expressed that naming the road after both of them is a reminder of their epic love story.

"She was someone who truly loved dad," said Luis Clemente, Roberto and Vera's son. "I always say that is the truest love story I know. She brought us up the way dad would have wanted. That is how she taught us to continue the legacy."

Louisville Slugger Museum & Factory

The Foundation worked with the Louisville Slugger Museum & Factory to unveil a lifelike sculpture of Roberto Clemente in August. The ceremony featured speakers as well as a special " first hold " of the Roberto Clemente game-used bat that was permanently added to the museum's Hold a Piece of History exhibit.

" We are thrilled to feature the great Roberto Clemente in the museum. With his extraordinary character and community involvement, Clemente was a true ambassador for the game whose legacy as a humanitarian has endured over time," said Deana Lockman, Executive Director of Experiences at Louisville Slugger Museum & Factory.

The new statue features Clemente in a Pirates jersey from the late 1960's complete with iconic vest and banded stirrups and socks.

" It's a true honor for our father to be recognized in this way by Louisville Slugger Museum & Factory, " said Luis Clemente, who attended the unveiling with his brother Roberto Clemente, Jr. Roberto, Jr. and Luis are Co-Chairpersons of the Foundation. " My father would be proud to have such a tribute in this great museum. We are incredibly grateful to all who were involved in the creation of this timeless statue that honors his legacy, " Luis said on behalf of his family and the Foundation.

To honor Clemente's legacy as a global humanitarian and philanthropist, on the day of the event, employees of Hillerich & Bradsby Co. and Foundation board members participated in a food packaging project with Love The Hungry. The project created enough meal packets to feed 7,000 children and was sent to and distributed in Puerto Rico.

Clemente is just the sixth person honored with a statue at the Louisville Slugger Museum & Factory. According to BBC World News, Clemente has been honored with more statues worldwide than any other athlete.

Orlando Renames Stonewall Jackson Road to Roberto Clemente Road

In early June, the Orlando City Council voted unanimously to rename the street that Roberto Clemente Middle School sits on from (confederate general) Stonewall Jackson Road to Roberto Clemente Road.

Orlando Mayor Buddy Dyer, District 2 Commissioner Tony Ortiz, City Commissioners, State Representative Daisy Morales, School Board member Johanna López, Alianza for Progress Executive Director Marcos Vilar, other leaders and residents who fought for the name change gathered to unveil the new street signs across from the school in late June.

"It is a true honor that the street and school that bore the name of General Stonewall Jackson is now replaced by the name of Roberto Clemente that represents the fight against injustice and racism," said Luis Clemente, who attended the event with Foundation President Tom Brasuell.

"For this neighborhood, for this county and city, Roberto Clemente will always represent the hope, the fight and overcoming struggles to make sure people are treated equally."

"The renaming supports the City of Orlando's continued efforts to make the city a more welcoming, inclusive place for all," said Mayor Buddy Dyer.

Clemente Family Visits Orlando's Roberto Clemente Middle School Mural

Leading up to the street name change in Orlando, Roberto Clemente's sons, Roberto Jr. and Luis, and Roberto III, Roberto Jr.'s son and the grandson of Roberto Clemente, visited the Roberto Clemente Middle School in Orlando.

The school was renamed in 2020, replacing Stonewall Jackson, and is the first and only Orange County Public School named after a Latino. During their visit Luis and Roberto, Jr. met with parents, former students, school officials and community leaders who led the renaming effort. The student body is about 75% Latino.

The trip was to view and dedicate a mural, completed by local artist Neysa Millan. The family met Millan and praised her artwork.

"The images she chose are very significant for us," Luis Clemente said, noting that Millan included scenes of Clemente as a husband and father. Luis Clemente said that a depiction of Clemente with his three sons near the center of the mural is based on his favorite picture of his father.

The brothers said that they are thrilled that their father's principles of hard work, inclusion, helping others and standing up to bullies are reaching another generation. Following the school visit, the brothers visited nearby Azalea Park Little League, where another mural of Clemente overlooks the field.

21 Retired from Puerto Rico Sports Programs

Roberto Clemente Walker's number 21 was permanently retired from programs of the Puerto Rico Sports and Recreation Department in a ceremony held at the Hiram Bithorn Stadium in San Juan, Puerto Rico on May 20, 2020.

The ceremony was attended by Puerto Rico Governor Pedro Pierluisi, Roberto's son Luis and Roberto's brother Justino Martinó Clemente. Also attending were San Juan Mayor Miguel Romero, and Secretary of Sports Ray Quiñones.

"Today we honor a figure who has been a source of inspiration for several generations who, almost 50 years after his departure, continues to inspire so many Puerto Ricans as well as people around the world. Today we praise everything that Roberto Clemente's unparalleled contribution to our sporting history, to our national pride and to the value we give to the service of others meant for Puerto Rico," said Pierluisi.

Student-athletes from local baseball academies attended event wearing uniforms with number 21 and at the end of the ceremony symbolically handed over their uniforms. A plaque was unveiled commemorating the moment.

Roberto Clemente Honored with Marker on Bradenton Riverwalk

On May 21, 2021, the City of Bradenton, Florida, dedicated Marker #21 on its Riverwalk to Roberto Clemente. Adding an image of Clemente to the existing 21 marker was the brainchild of local resident Linda Toy, an avid Clemente and Pittsburgh Pirates fan. Ms. Toy called Realize Bradenton and was put in touch with the Pittsburgh Pirates' Florida operation. Bradenton's Pirate City has been the spring training home of the Pirates since 1969. The Pirates contacted Bradenton's Public Works Department who supported the measure.

Luis Clemente was on hand to witness the moment as was Bradenton Vice Mayor Marianne Barnebey and representatives of the Pirates. Later that day, as part of Minor League Baseball's Copa de la Diversión, a seson-long promotion designed to embrace Hispanic/Latino culture and values, the Bradenton Marauders, Class A affiliate of the Pittsburgh Pirates, became the Barbanegras ("Black Beards") for the first of four games in 2021. The game included a Roberto Clemente Bobblehead Giveaway and a ceremonial first pitch by Luis Clemente.

Palm Bay Complex Named After Roberto Clemente

In a dedication ceremony on April 15, 2021, the baseball/softball complex at Fred Poppe Regional Park in Palm Bay, Florida was named for Roberto Clemente Walker and the two baseball fields were named for Jackie Robinson and Hank Aaron. The Roberto Clemente Walker Baseball / Softball Complex was a dream of local resident Sam Lopez. Lopez, who founded the oldest Puerto Rican Day Parade in Florida, passed away in January 2021. Lopez's son and daughter worked to continue their father's efforts.

Foundation Co-Chairpersons Roberto Clemente, Jr. and Luis Clemente attended the dedication ceremony following a visit to the Roberto Clemente Sports Complex located in nearby Heritage High School. Two teams playing an exhibition game to inaugurate the newly named complex received practice bat and ball sets courtesy of Franklin Sports that were distributed by Luis and Roberto, Jr.

¡Pleibol! In the Barrios and the Big Leagues / En Los Barrios y las Grandes Ligas

¡Pleibol!

The Foundation supported a new bilingual exhibition showcasing the history and culture of Latinos through the lens of baseball, which launched in January 2021. The exhibition is organized by the National Museum of American History in collaboration with the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES).

The traveling version of the exhibition will visit 15 cities through 2025. A full version of the exhibition featuring objects, artifacts and photos is open in Washington, D.C., at the National Museum of American History.

¡Pleibol! captures the excitement of the game, from community baseball teams to the Major Leagues, highlighting how the game can bring people together regardless of race, class or gender.

The launch of the traveling tour included the release of a set of interactive 3D models and informational content for objects including Roberto Clemente's batting helmet and Pirates jersey. The 3D models feature bilingual virtual tours, augmented reality functionality for smartphones, and a number of other exciting capabilities.

United States Army Garrison (USAG) Fort Buchanan in Puerto Rico Dedicates State-of- the-Art Physical Fitness Facility in Honor of Roberto Clemente

In January 2021 USAG Fort Buchanan conducted a memorialization ceremony of the garrison's $1.6 million, 4,800 square foot Physical Fitness Center Annex, in honor of US Marine Corps Reserve Private First Class Roberto E. Clemente Walker.

Col. Joseph B. Corcoran III, Fort Buchanan garrison commander, welcomed members of the Clemente family, distinguished guests, military and civilian partners, and directors and staff reaffirming the importance of Fort Buchanan's commitment to the community by honoring "a Marine, an elite baseball player who was the first Latin American inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame, but more importantly, an ambassador for all Puerto Ricans who was always willing to give a hand to those in need."

The modern PFC Roberto E. Clemente Walker Physical Fitness Center Annex facility, is designed and constructed following energy conservation measures and provides soldiers with a location to prepare for the Army Combat Fitness Test. Col. Corcoran emphasized, "The most important feature of this facility is the banner proudly displayed in front of the building honoring the legacy of Roberto Clemente and all he stood for." The banner depicts images of Roberto Clemente when he joined the US Marine Corps Reserve in September 1958 where he served until September 1964.

Luis Clemente thanked Fort Buchanan on behalf of the Clemente family "for the honor of having a facility inside of Fort Buchanan.... named after my Dad."

LA CIUDAD en Tu PUEBLO

The Foundation, in partnership with the Major League Baseball Players Alumni Association, the Major League Baseball Players Association (MLBPA), Major League Baseball, Dick's Sporting Goods, Wilson Sporting Goods, and UPI, supported Roberto Clemente Sports City's annual series of "La Ciudad en Tu Pueblo" clinics throughout Puerto Rico during the week of November 15 – 19, 2021.

The clinics were held in Ponce, Arecibo, Fajardo and Arroyo and each event included participants from surrounding towns. The mayors of the municipalities from each city also supported the clinics through their respective recreation departments and delivered participants to the fields by bus.

The week was launched with a field-naming ceremony at Ángel "Cuquí" Mangual Field that borders the cities of Ponce and Juana Diaz. Angel's former Oakland Athletic teammates Vida Blue and Billy North attended the event as did mayors from both cities. Family members of Angel, who passed away in February 2021, were also present.

The clinics offered one on one and small group skills instruction through drills that focused on fundamentals. Participants, who ranged in age from 8-18, went from station to station, staffed by former Major Leaguers* and learned: base running; infield footwork drills which taught how to field ground balls properly and maintain proper fielding position; proper throwing technique to improve arm strength and accuracy; and proper form to catch fly balls.

Parents who attended expressed their thanks to the Foundation for providing such a positive experience, especially after the pandemic had severely curtailed most youth sports. The children and parents were especially grateful when the Foundation showed up for the Thursday clinic in Fajardo despite pouring rain and improvised a clinic under covered areas.

The four clinics drew a total of 588 children, who each received a Foundation T-shirt bearing #21, baseball cards courtesy of the MLBPA, a baseball which they used to receive autographs after the clinic, water and a snack. The number of attendees would have been even higher but on Day One a number of attendees remained in the bleachers as they mistakenly thought they needed to be part of a team to participate.

ALL – STAR WEEK

ROBERTO CLEMENTE FOUNDATION GOLF CLASSIC 2021

ALL-STAR GAME 2021 COLORADO

During MLB's 2021 All-Star Week in Denver, the Foundation hosted a Golf Tournament at the Club at Inverness. Thanks to the generosity of sponsors, the Foundation arranged for military veterans, active and retired police, firefighters, EMT's and teachers to participate for free.

While in Denver, Foundation Co-Chairs Roberto Clemente, Jr. and Luis Clemente stopped by Play Ball Park at the Colorado Convention Center and took photos with fans at the World's Largest Baseball, visited the Roberto Clemente exhibit and conducted Q and A sessions for guests at the All- Star Clubhouse.

The week also included a visit to the McNichols Civic Center Building, where local Chicana artist Karma Leigh created a Roberto Clemente mural.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE DAY

Roberto Clemente Day was established in 2002 to honor the memory, life and legacy of Roberto Clemente and to announce and recognize local nominees of the Roberto Clemente Award. As part of the celebration each Club conducts an on-field, pre-game presentation with their local Clemente nominee. 2021 nominees are featured on pages 26 and 27.

Since 2007, fans have participated in the selection process of the overall winner with the fan ballot winner tallied as one vote among those cast by the selection panel of baseball dignitaries, media and members of the Clemente family.

2021 marked the 20th Roberto Clemente Day with Major League Baseball announcing "Roberto Clemente Day" will be celebrated annually on September 15, beginning with the 2021 season. The date was chosen partly due to September 15 marking the first day of Hispanic Heritage Month. A fixed date, similar to Jackie Robinson Day (April 15) and the new Lou Gehrig Day (June 2), follows years of the Clemente family championing a date that would not move from year-to-year.

Pittsburgh Clemente Day activities were launched on Monday, September 13 when the Foundation were guests of the Pirates and hosted a reception at PNC Park for 150 guests including Clemente family members, Foundation partners and guests from San Juan, Puerto Rico and beyond. Among the attendees were former Pirate and Roberto's teammate Manny Sanguillén, Sean Gibson, great-grandson of legendary Homestead Grays' slugger Josh Gibson, Pennsylvania

State Senate Leader Jay Costa and Pittsburgh Mayor Bill Peduto. "Roberto was unmatched on the field ... and the way he played the game was almost an artistic ballet, but he gave of himself in so many small ways to people," said Mayor Peduto in his welcoming remarks.

- On Tuesday, September 14, Clemente Foundation board members, joined by the Pittsburgh Pirates Parrot, partnered with Blessings in a Backpack, to pack 100 bags of ready-to-eat food weekend meals for children who attend Boys & Girls Clubs of Western Pennsylvania afterschool programs.

- On Clemente Day, the Pittsburgh Pirates continued to honor the life and legacy of the great Roberto Clemente, honoring "The Great One" with a day of giving throughout Pittsburgh. In the spirit of Clemente's community service legacy, the Pirates front office took part in two service projects. Luis Clemente joined representatives of the Club who took part in a field renovation and winterization event at Brashear High School in the Beechview neighborhood, helping with much-needed improvements to the baseball and softball diamonds. The work included upgrades to the infield, rebuilding the pitching mounds, painting of the dugouts and more.

- All Puerto Rican players in uniform throughout Major League Baseball were able to wear Clemente's number (in place of their normal number).

ROBERTO CLEMENTE DAY

- Roberto Clemente Award nominees and recipients also were able to wear No. 21. All players and umpires wore a 21 patch with a distinctive patch for Clemente Award nominees and past recipients.

- Prior to the Cardinals – Pirates game, Pittsburgh Mayor Bill Peduto posthumously presented Roberto with the Key to the City at the Roberto Clemente Statue in the presence of the Clemente family, Foundation board members, Pirates staff and the public. It was the first posthumously gifted Key to the City under the Peduto administration.

- For the second consecutive year, all Pittsburgh Pirates players and coaches wore 21 for Clemente Day with the jerseys auctioned and proceeds benefitting the Foundation

- Pre-game ceremonies included recognition of the Pirates Clemente Award nominee Jacob Stallings and Duquesne University Roberto Clemente Scholars (see pages 30 and 31).

That's what made him Roberto Clemente. He took care of people, helped people, he liked to have fun with the fans. He always took care of people. He was a humble guy from Puerto Rico, Carolina. I thank God for being nominated for the Roberto Clemente Award.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE AWARD

In 2021, seven-time All-Star Nelson Cruz was named the 50th recipient of the Roberto Clemente Award, Major League Baseball's (MLB) most prestigious individual player honor. Nelson was nominated by the Minnesota Twins, the team he played for until being traded midseason. Nelson officially received the Award from Baseball Commissioner Robert D. Manfred, Jr. and Luis Clemente at a pregame press conference before Game 2 of the 2021 World Series at Minute Maid Park in Houston.

Prior to the game Nelson and Luis joined MLB and Houston Astros representatives at the Houston Area Women's Center, as part of the "Fall Classic Legacy" program, where a joint $50,000 contribution was announced. The funds will go toward refurbishing the pavilion area and play yard for children at the center, which houses victims of domestic abuse.

Nelson was a leader in generating support from MLB, the Major League Baseball Players Association (MLBPA) and the MLBPA Players Trust resulting in a $400,000 donation to the Dominican Republic to provide medical equipment and address food insecurity during the pandemic.

Nelson supported his hometown in the Dominican Republic (Las Matas de Santa Cruz):

- Helped feed more than 700 families and provided financial support to individuals not able to work due to the COVID-19 pandemic; in total, nearly 1,200 families received direct support from Nelson due to COVID-related hardships.
- After a childhood friend lost his home to a fire, provided a fire engine, 80 firefighter uniforms and an ambulance to help treat and transport people to the nearest hospital (nearly an hour away).
- Each year, brings dentists and optometrists to his town's clinic to provide checkups, medicine and eyewear.
- Nelson's Boomstick23 Foundation began construction on an education and technical center, to host training for technical skills and how to better use farmland to produce crops; the training is aimed to provide skills and a path toward employment and in come stability.
- Equipped the center with computers to help young athletes who are pursuing their MLB dreams complete their high school education and provide an opportunity to go to college.

MLBPA PLAYERS TRUST

The Foundation worked with the Major League Baseball Player's Trust to identify Clemente namesake schools throughout the United States. The Trust, the charitable arm of the Major League Baseball Player's Association, harnesses the players commitment to philanthropy, to impact communities where they live, play, and call home.

Working with Donor'sChoose, the Trust funded a dozen projects at three Roberto Clemente Schools. The funded projects range from helping to purchase a filtration system for healthier air to providing books and art supplies.
